Executive Summary

---

December 2015 marks the second time that the Calgary Public Teachers, ATA Local 38, asked teachers for information about their class sizes and complexity. This report provides readers with a snapshot of the class sizes and complexities with which students and teachers must contend. The information is presented in both graphical and tabular format for the reader.

The real question, of course, is “what does this all mean?”

When we compare the data from our 2014 class size census two facts are revealed: class size and complexity have both increased from 2014 to 2015.

In the graphs presented, the reader will note reference to Alberta’s Commission on Learning (ACOL)<sup>1</sup>, which undertook a significant review of Alberta’s Education system and produced a report in October 2003 that recommended the implementation of class size guidelines.

Those guidelines were as follows:

Junior Kindergarten to Grade 3	17 students
Grades 4 to 6	23 students
Grades 7 to 9	25 students
Grades 10 to 12	27 students

(ACOL Recommendation 14, P. 61)

That same recommendation also added:

“Generally, classes with special needs students, students whose first language is not English, and vulnerable and at-risk students should be smaller than the guideline.”

(ACOL, P. 61)

Further on that same page the commission continued:

“The Province should provide adequate funding to enable school jurisdictions to meet the class size guidelines. Information on average class sizes should be included in school jurisdiction profiles and used to determine provincial funding levels.”

The Government of Alberta accepted these recommendations.

It is worth noting, that in the case of the Calgary Board of Education, that at no grade level were these class size guidelines achieved even without consideration for special needs students. Clearly, the Government of Alberta has not fulfilled its commitment to Alberta students.
